Nestled perfectly between comfort and support

Traditional memory foam mattresses have been available for years. And while their benefits of motion separation and pressure relief have remained constant, so have their problems. Customers have complained about a sinking, hard-to-move sensation and excessive heat build-up. That's why the ComforPedic™ by Simmons line utilizes the next generation of memory foam. Created in a special vacuum-sealed chamber to increase air flow and resilience, ComforPedic® Next-Generation Advanced Memory Foam not only responds quickly to your movements, but also dissipates heat to help keep you at the ideal sleeping temperature. The result is a mattress that provides the perfect combination of comfort and support - without feeling like you're sleeping in quicksand.

Our patented Edge® Support System makes sitting almost as comfortable as sleeping

ComforPedic® Next-Generation Advanced Memory Foam is designed to quickly contour to the curves of your body. But when you're sitting on the edge if the bed, you need a bit more support. Thanks to an innovative geometric construction, our Edge® Support System firms up the sides of the bed for stability while sitting and extends the sleeping surface of the mattress all the way to the edge.

Our Mattresses are Australian Made.
